ANNUAL REPORT 2018

AmeriCorps Alumni Spotlight: Wyatt Schroeder serves as director of community partnerships for the City of Boise. Previously he served as the executive director for CATCH. Wyatt served as an AmeriCorps member with Rebuilding Together, where he found the passion of his life — ending homelessness. Since then he has worked with Doorways for Women and Families, a re-housing and domestic violence shelter organization in Arlington, Virginia, and Project HOME, a housing and services agency in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. Wyatt is committed to building sustainable organizations around innovative housing models, such as Housing First, while never forgetting to share the powerful stories of those we serve. He has a Bachelor of Arts from Allegheny College and a Master of Business Administration from Villanova University.

SERVICE AS A SOLUTION

Serve Idaho, the Governor's Commission on Volunteerism, exists to inspire service to build a better Idaho. We promote collaborative efforts among private and nonprofit organizations, schools, and state and local government agencies to advance national service programs and volunteerism throughout the state. Serve Idaho achieves this through the administration of Idaho's AmeriCorps grants, hosting the annual Serve Idaho Conference on Service and Volunteerism to provide volunteer management training and professional development, and through hosting the Idaho's Brightest Star Awards to recognize Idaho's outstanding volunteers. We also serve as the state leader in national days of service including Martin Luther King Jr. Day and Sept. 11th Day of Service and Remembrance.

Idaho's Brightest Star Awards

In 2018 we recognized 79 outstanding volunteers from throughout Idaho. Pictured are teachers from Ashton Elementary, winners of the teacher category. First and second grade teachers have volunteered, holding an operetta for the community every other year for the past 50 years!
